He served as the CFO for a worldwide pioneer in the design and manufacture of laser systems for communications, industrial and government markets. In this capacity, Al developed strategic initiatives which reestablished corporate solvency, eliminated loan covenant defaults, paid down a substantial line of credit balance and ultimately restored banking confidence within a 5 month period. Additionally, during his tenure as CFO he also simultaneously served as the interim President of one of the company's subsidiaries located in Boston, MA for twelve months.
